Weekly reminders of the online study group sessions sponsored by The NALS Education Committee have been emailed along with the weekly questions and upon request, the session transcript to accommodate those studying for the certification exams that do not have internet access in the evenings. I have also fielded numerous inquires regarding certification.

The online tutorial is still available and can be accessed from the NALS of Michigan website by clicking on the education tab and then the link for the online tutorial. I have received very positive feedback from users of the tutorial.

Due to the small number of registered candidates for the March exam, plans to hold an all-day cram session have been cancelled.

Respectfully submitted,
